DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

Drawings

2. Figures 1 and 2 should be designated by a legend such as --Prior Art-- because only that which is old is illustrated. See MPEP § 608.02(g).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 19-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The phrase "so as to surround said power semiconductor element and said emitter electrode plate" (claim 19, lines 18-19, claim 21, lines 12-13) is not described in the specification.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 19-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Applicant's admitted Prior Art in view of Yanagisawa et al. (U.S patent # 5,874,750).

Referring to figure 1 and 2 of Applicant's admitted Prior Art shows a voltage-driven power semiconductor device comprising:

a (plurality) voltage-driven power semiconductor element 300a- 300d (IEGT chip);

a collector electrode plate 330 which is connected to a collector of the (plurality) power semiconductor element(s) and press-contacts the power semiconductor element from the collector side (see figure 1);

an emitter electrode plate 340 which is connected to an emitter of the (plurality) power semiconductor element(s) and press-contacts the power semiconductor element from the emitter side (see figure 1).

Applicant's admitted Prior Art does not show an (plurality) inductance component(s) arranged near a press surface of the power semiconductor element so as to surround the power semiconductor element and the emitter electrode plate. In figure 8, Yanagisawa et al. show an inductance component L2 arranged near a press surface of the emitter electrode plate against the emitter of the power semiconductor element to produce a voltage drop on the inductance L2 when the emitter current changes (column 2, lines 5 and 6). It would be obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art of the time the invention was made to form an inductance component arranged near a press surface of the power semiconductor element so as to surround the power semiconductor element and the emitter electrode plate as taught by Yanagisawa et al.

in the device of Applicant's admitted Prior Art to produce a voltage drop on the inductance L2 when the emitter current changes.
